Plenary session

How Can We Ensure Russia's Economic Development in the Presence of Restrictions Imposed by Sanctions?

22 November 2022

10.00 – 13.00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 51/1, 3rd floor, Nobel Prize Winner Hall

The Russian economy is doing well despite the pressure exerted by the sanctions. However, have we forgotten about the goal of achieving the accelerated economic growth? Would it be all right to say that the current issues, incl. the new territories' integration, financial and technical support of the special military operation, postpone achievement of the medium-term economic goals? What does a mobilization mean for the businesses?

Moderator:

K.V. Simonov, Head, Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Science and Mass Communications, Financial University under the Government of the Russian Federation

Speakers:

D.N. Chernyshenko, Deputy Chairman of the Government of the Russian Federation

A.G. Aksakov, Chairperson, State Duma Committee for Financial Markets

D.N. Peskov, Special Presidential Representative for Digitalization and Technology Development, Government of the Russian Federation

S.Ye. Prokofiev, Rector, Financial University under the Government of the Russian Federation

P.M. Fradkov, Chairman, Promsvyazbank

Topics for discussion:

1. Technological and financial sovereignty of Russia in the presence of new challenges.
2. New priorities in the fiscal and monetary policy: is there a place for incentives for the economic growth?
3. The medium-term challenges posed by the sanctions: is it a paradigm of economic development or survival?
4. The economic dimension of the consequences of restrictions imposed by sanctions and the mobilization.
5. The import substitution process: the expectation vs the reality.

RUSSIAN REGIONS' SUSTAINABILITY: THREATS, RISKS AND OPPORTUNITIES

22 November 2022

14.00 – 16.00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 55, room 213

The new challenges facing the constituent territories of the Russian Federation show that, on the one hand, the range of issues solved by the regions is becoming bigger, and, on the other hand, that the society sets more requirements to regional authorities' operational efficiency. The issue of ensuring sustainable economic growth in the regions is becoming more acute, if we take into account the unconditional fulfillment of public regulatory obligations of the federation's constituent territories.

We need to find answers to the following questions:

- What can become a source of economic growth for the regions under the new conditions?
- What should social, economic and fiscal policy of the federation's constituent territories include, if we bear in mind the modern challenges?
- How can we prevent territorial and social inequality exacerbation?

Moderator:

S.P. Solyannikova, Vice-Rector for Research, Financial University

Speakers:

Ye.A. Kozlov, Deputy Head, Mayor's Office and Office of the Government of Moscow, PhD (Economics)

P.V. Malkov, Governor of the Ryazan Region

A.A. Okhlopov, First Deputy Governor, Khanty-Mansi Autonomous Region–Yugra

I.A. Sokolov, Head, Laboratory for the Study of Fiscal Policy, Institute of Economic Policy, Russian Academy of National Economy and Public Administration under the President of the Russian Federation

V.A. Fedorishchev, First Deputy Governor, Tula Region, Chairman, Government of the Tula Region

Topics for discussion:

1. Regional points of economic growth in the context of restrictions imposed by the sanctions
2. Investment in the regions: how can we maintain it and attract more investment?
3. Economic development vs. sustainability of the budgets of the constituent territories of the Russian Federation
4. How can we improve the public property management efficiency in the regions?
5. How can we resolve the territorial and social inequality issues in the context of modern restrictions?

RUSSIA AND THE NEW CHALLENGES: WITH WHOM SHOULD WE COOPERATE AND UNDER WHICH CONDITIONS?

22 November 2022

14.00 – 16.00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 51/1, room 1006

The National Security Strategy of the Russian Federation approved by Decree No. 400 of 2 July 2021 of the President is based on the concept of the on-going transformation of the contemporary world order. The unipolar world epoch is coming to an end. The world political situation is changing dynamically. The multipolar world order, which is considered to be a fairer world order, is being established. As the geopolitical situation is becoming increasingly tense, in order to jointly resolve global issues, Russia's policy should help make international relations system more stable, based on the principles of universal, equal and indivisible security, deepen multilateral cooperation devoid of dividing lines and bloc-based approaches. As a policy aimed at containing the Russian Federation is implemented, it is vital for us to strengthen the sovereignty, independence, territorial integrity, protect the traditional moral foundations of Russian society, ensure defense and security, and prevent interference in the internal affairs.

EXTERNAL AND INTERNAL MIGRATION AS A RESOURCE IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN REGIONS

22 November 2022

14.00 – 17.00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 49/2, room 214

Eurasian economic integration raises many questions related not only to the future of this integrated association, but also to the future of the new world order that will replace today's world order. Therefore, the key benchmarks for the EAEU and the CIS macroeconomic policy for the period of up to 2023 have been approved. The main goal is to achieve the annual Union's GDP growth rate of 4.5-5.5%. The strategy is based on increasing production and strengthening the domestic market. A special role is assigned to the countries' cooperation in the labor migration development and workers' social security. For the EAEU, the single labor market is a certain indicator of the Eurasian integration, as the attitudes towards the results of integration and trust in the process depend on the market work efficiency. Today, a significant EAEU asset is 93 million employees who are free to choose the jobs in any of the Union's countries.

We should be aware of the fact that the labor force can be a sought-after product fit for exports, just as oil and gas, in a modern economy. The consequence of the lack of workers is the economic development discontinuance, and the economic growth rate decrease. It is important to address these issues today because the post-Soviet countries experience various types of demographic changes. At the same time, the determining factor is not the migration flows, but the ability to improve human capital, to make incentives for the people to get educated, become a competitive employer who is in demand. These issues are in the focus of attention of the Financial and Business Association of Eurasian Cooperation.

In today's reality, qualifications and training are the key source for the development of a competitive economy and advanced technology. Therefore, we should consider as a prioritized goal to ensure the free labor force movement, expand the range of the rights and improve social security, create a pool of highly-qualified experts, and train personnel in a common educational area.

SESSIONS ON TOPICAL SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC ISSUES

ESG-BASED TRANSFORMATION OF THE GREATER EURASIA'S ECONOMIES IN THE PRESENCE OF THE GLOBAL MISBALANCES

23 November 2022

14:00-17:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 51/1, room 1006

A webinar

Today the ESG-based transformation of the economies of the Greater Eurasia in the context of global misbalances is a special issue on the agenda. The unshakable leadership of the US and the EU lack balance. The process of discarding the US dollar, the use of other national and regional currencies in international payments marked the emergence of a new world's monetary system and the transformation of the established global financial system architecture. A competition between different currencies leads to a military confrontation, and emergence of new global financial market leaders.

The purpose of this international session is to make a scientific and academic contribution to the achievement of Russia's national sustainable development goals based on the use of low carbon technologies, new green financial instruments via the Eurasian digital ESG-based platform within the framework of the Eurasian integration process and through the formation of financial and economic ESG competencies in order to support and monitor projects and economic sectors of the Eurasian region.

We will pay much attention to discussing the differences between the Eurasian and European ESG standards and the possibility of their harmonization in the interests of the social and economic development of Russia.

EXTERNAL RESTRICTIONS AS AN INCENTIVE FOR DEVELOPMENT: STRATEGIES AND SOLUTIONS

23 November 2022

14:00 – 17:00

Ulitsa Verkhnyaya Maslovka, 15, room 509

The global market rules changed for the Russian businesses and government institutions. This brought about a fundamental revision of existing partnerships and supply chains.

Under these conditions, the Russian businesses have to find new options for cooperation and revise opportunities for internal development, while finding external resources to achieve tactical and strategic goals. We need to revisit the technological tools to adapt them to the constantly changing environment.

On which countries should the companies take a closer look in the near future?

It is especially important today for the business community members to examine the world economy development and the most promising areas for the companies' development. The researchers should find a way to meet today's challenges.

THE STATE, SOCIETY AND THE MEDIA: A LIFE IN THE EPOCH OF VIRUSES

23 November 2022

14:00 – 18:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 55, Professors' Club

Rapid fluidity, non-linearity, instability, and diffusivity have been the characteristics of the development process recently. The system of international relations and economic cooperation is being deconstructed, and new threats to security are unexpectedly emerging. Analysts say that we witness the replacement of the world globalization trends by a chaotic epoch of abnormality. Under these conditions, the virus message-based controlling of these processes is becoming increasingly important. The virus message is defined as a way of making an impact upon peoples' minds through bogus stories posted in various media containing different political, economic, cultural ideas, concepts, doctrines that have been divided into separate parts and then combined into one semantic unit, causing a reaction that resembles a virus infection, without the knowledge of the recipient. The session is devoted to discussion of all these issues and their impact on the daily life of the people, society and the media.

MODERN FINANCE: THE PARADOXES AND NONSTANDARD SOLUTIONS IN AN ECONOMY UNDER SANCTIONS

14:00 – 18:00

Moscow, Maly Zlatoustinsky Pereulok, 7/1, room 318

An online session: <https://vk.com/public87376113>

The stable operation of the modern financial system has played an important part in the sustainable development of various economies, including the Russian economy. This is why an intensive search is going on for possible stabilizing mechanisms that could, on the one hand, ensure the desired financial stability, and, on the other hand, an optimal financial depth, while identifying priorities for the sectoral development. The panel discussion participants will discuss topical issues related to current trends and issues of the Russian financial system and financial market, and develop researcher recommendations for improving the financial mechanism as the driver of economic growth in an economy affected by sanctions.

THE NEW REALITY IN ECONOMICS AND BUSINESS: THE TRENDS IN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

23 November 2022

14:00 – 16:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 51, room 0515

An online session on: <https://meet.google.com/vwk-immc-jxf>

Economy and business transformation in the new reality calls for a re-examination of the economic development prospects and the Russian companies' positioning opportunities. This requires a change of traditional financial and investment business strategies, the development of new approaches to managing the sectoral economy and business sector based on the use of sustainable development principles. Until recently, the ESG-based business transformation strategies have been a trend in the business sector. However, given the impact made by the geopolitical and external economic factors, we can see a trend of transforming the ESG-based approaches into the environment, personnel and government (EPG-based) principles of sustainable development. It is based on the national project and industry program implementation. The decarbonization of the economy that is in demand in the modern society and is included in the climate agenda, has run into the risk of an energy crisis that affects the economic, social and environmental aspects of responsible business governance. In the presence of the new global challenges that build a certain economic environment, it is important to identify the economy and business sustainable development trends and find opportunities for the companies to develop that will help them operate in a difficult period, and develop sustainable development strategies.

THE DIGITALIZATION PROCESS TRENDS IN THE PRESENCE OF GLOBAL CHALLENGES

23 November 2022

15:00 – 17:00

Chetverty Veshnyakovsky Proyezd, 4, conference hall 3909

An online session on: VK Calls

Evolutionary movement towards the information society, new external circumstances raise questions of the digital sovereignty. Threats and risks associated with dependence on the overseas technologies require a radical review of the established practice of supporting and developing critical infrastructure. The Strategy for the Development of the Information Society in the Russian Federation in 2017 – 2030 defines the digital economy as an economic activity. Data in digital format can significantly improve the efficiency of various types of production, technology, equipment, storage, sales, delivery of goods and services. However, how should we manage data, and, most importantly, who should supervise the management process: the top managers or the IT experts? The Data Governance-based approach shows that the data management should become the goal of all the company managers, and not just IT experts. What is going on in the companies today, who really leads the data management process? These are the issues that the CIOs, top managers and researchers will discuss.

DIGITAL TRANSFORMATION OF THE EURASIAN DEVELOPMENT AREA: CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

23 November 2022

14:00 – 18:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 49/2, room 214

Formation of an ecosystem based on the EAEU digital solutions, shared digital platforms and digital infrastructure implies close cooperation and coordination of their development and implementation process. It is important to examine, update and expand the current ICT standards list in order to embrace new digital technologies (incl. broadband technology, cloud computing, Internet of Things, Big Data and open data, cybersecurity, etc.) in line with the available international standards.

International cooperation in standardization and an appropriate adaptation will ensure integration into the global digitalization process, and cooperation with the privately owned companies operating in the sector will help get the dividends faster. In addition, we should launch a cross-border electronic identification and authentication system. Without it, it is not possible to be engaged in either cross-border digital trade or e-commerce. It is also necessary to develop and approve a centralized certification method for such systems in the EAEU Member States to ensure compatibility and efficient interoperability. Finally, we should examine the opportunities for building a mechanism to be used for attracting investment in the EAEU common digital infrastructure development.

THE MISERY OF POSTMODERNISM THAT OFFERS A SINGLE CONCEPT FOR THE PAST, THE PRESENT AND THE FUTURE

23 November 2022

14:00 – 18:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 49/2, co-working room 01 (basement level)

Post-capitalism is beginning to gain control over people. Utilitarian global threats gradually migrate from the conspiracy theories into the real life of each person and people at large. If such threats become a reality, we will see an avalanche-like tectonic rapidly developing segregation, separation and disintegration processes, which is fraught with deadly consequences for the social and historical organism. The real barrier on the way to finding a solution to the issue is the misery of postmodernism that has a single interpretation for the past, the present and the future, and all this is quite important.

TRANSFORMATION OF INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC RELATIONS IN THE PRESENCE OF NEW CHALLENGES

23 November 2022

14:00 – 18:00

Leningradsky Prospekt, 49/2, room 406

In modern conditions, both the international economic relations and the world community are transformed in the same way. Today's market economy-based model of international relations has shown a lack of sustainability on the global scale. The policy of sanctions, the consequences of the neo-colonial globalization and the inaction of the international economic organizations, the world community members, including the UN, destroy the composition of the existing global economy counterparties due to external shocks, bringing new players to the external environment. We think it is quite necessary to examine the current world economy and international cooperation development trends in order to identify the prevailing transformational processes in the international economic relations against the backdrop of the growing global energy crisis. We suppose it is extremely vital to assess the factors of Russia's foreign trade diversification in order to reindustrialize the economy and ensure technological independence. These are the key issues that will be discussed during the session by the key speakers, presenters and participants. They will present their view of the international economic relations development prospects in the period of the world's economic order transformation.

INFORMATION WARS AND MEDIA WARS

23 November 2022

13:00 – 15:00

Kronshtadsky Boulevard, 37b, Assembly Hall

The Russian media sector was built more than a century ago. The Russian information sources have always been famous for their relevance, completeness of data, good content, and a good balance of the content provided. Information wars and media wars have become a reality. How can we respond to media attacks on the young community members? How can we survive during the information collapse? How does the Russian media adapt to the new environment shaped by the media empires?
